RE: Confiscated Havana, Cuba Dock and Harbor Facilities

Dear Sir:

We obtained your contact information from the U.S. Department of Justice Foreign Claims Settlement Commission and the Secretary of State for the State of Delaware. Enclosed please find a copy of an image downloaded from an internet tourist site of the new Havana Harbor cruise ship terminal operated by the Castro regime. Additionally, please find a copy of a Havana Harbor street sketch dating from 1958.

We are attempting to determine whether or not the "new" cruise ship terminal in Havana Harbor, opened in the late 1990's by the Castro regime with the assistance of European investors, makes use of or is constructed on property confiscated from U. S. nationals, in particular, the Havana Docks Corporation.

Based on a review of Foreign Claims Settlement Commission Decision No. CU-6165 regarding Havana Docks Corporation Claim No. CU-2492 it is our understanding that the Castro regime confiscated from the Havana Docks Corporation, among other property the:

1. "San Francisco" pier;
2. "Machina" pier;

3. "Santa Clara" pier;
4. Real property, with all improvements and appurtenances, located on the Avenida del Puerto between Calle Amargura and Calle Santa Clara in Havana facing the Bay of Havana;
5. Other port, dock and wharf and transportation facilities in Havana, Cuba.

We would greatly appreciate your assistance in determining whether or not the Castro regime and its European investors are currently benefiting from the use of the confiscated property of the Havana Docks Corporation or other U. S. nationals. Please contact me at your earliest convenience. Thank you for your assistance with this request.

Best regards,

Nicolás J. Gutiérrez, Jr.

View from Cristo de Havana statue, which overlooks the narrow Havana harbor entrance and sprawling city. The empty cruise ship terminal is noticeable just left of center.
